BUILDING ALLIANCES IN THE FACE OF ECOCIDE

Friday, Dec 6th | 2019 10.00 - 17.00
Ethical lunch included, reception afterwards
House of Europe | Korte Vijverberg 5,
2513 AB, The Hague

A workshop intended to explore the reality of Ecocide in various regions of the world, the requirements for amending the Rome Statute to include Ecocide Crime, and the nature of alliances that could help move this amendment forward.

There will be expert facilitation throughout the workshop to enable full involvement of all participants, so that the outcomes from the day include strong strategies for ongoing alliance- building and positive commitments towards addressing the missing crime of Ecocide.

We kindly invite you to register for the event at

Due to limited capacity, we apologise in advance if we are unable to secure you a seat. However, we will be more than happy to connect with you at another occasion.

"By 'ecocide' we should understand the loss, damage or destruction of ecosystems of a given territory, so that its enjoyment by the inhabitants has been or may be severely affected. This is a fifth category of crimes against peace, which should be recognized as such by the international community."
